

Individual Award Evaluation Criteria

Individual Award nominations should demonstrate the impact of individual's efforts on the unit's ability to accomplish its mission-essential tasks or the impact on the supported unit's operational capability and mission accomplishment. An award nomination may also demonstrate superior leadership of subordinates, peers, teams, and organizations in installations and logistics related actions in a manner that enhances performance. The results of the actions displayed by the individual may also show considerable improvement and enhancement in operational capabilities.

Unit Logistics Awards

Marine Corps Logistics Organization/Team of the Year (Large Unit) A large unit is defined as battalion sized Organization or larger. Task organized units will not be considered for this award.

Marine Corps Logistics Organization/Team of the Year (Small Unit). A small unit is defined as any organization smaller than a battalion. Task organized units will not be considered for this award.

Unit Award Evaluation Criteria. Unit nominations should outline accomplishments that demonstrate the unit's ability to accomplish its mission- essential tasks or showcase the impact to the supported unit's operational capability and mission accomplishment. An award nomination may also demonstrate superior performance in logistics-related fields and demonstrate coordination of resources and assets to achieve efficient and effective results. The unit may also highlight programs or actions aimed at improving motivation or morale of unit personnel and families.

Innovation Logistics Award

Marine Corps Logistics Organization/Team of the Year for Innovation. Task organized units will not be considered for this award.

Innovation Award Nomination Criteria

Unit innovation award nominations should demonstrate outstanding contribution in a logistics field through the development or advancement of concepts, doctrine, technology or procedures that contribute to the improvement 21st century logistics practices. Other contributions may include are not limited to: improving logistics response time, ownership cost reduction, or innovative logistics planning and execution that merits adoption for common usage.

Nominating Units

Marine Corps Installations Command (MCICOM), Marine Corps Logistics Command (MARCORLOGCOM), Marine Corps Combat Development Command (MCCDC), Marine Corps Systems Command (MARCORSYSCOM), Training and Education Command (TECOM), Marine Corps Forces Special Operations Command (MARSOC), each Deputy Commandant, Marine Force (MARFOR), and Marine Expeditionary Force (MEF) may submit one nomination for each award.